WOMEN HOUSED
6 women were housed in TRI's 3-bed apartment in Longmont upon release from incarceration. They also received comprehensive case management support.

BEHIND THE WALLS
7 women completed TRI's first 6-month pre-release, evidence-based program to address criminogenic thinking patterns. The training helps to change behaviors, increasing their abilities to make better choices and achieve self-sufficiency. 3 of the graduates have exited incarceration and continued to receive support from TRI.

DAY OF RELEASE SUPPORT
The first 24-hours after a woman is released from incarceration is absolutely critical. That is why 24 women were provided with support including backpacks filled with essentials, transportation, and ID support.

PARTNERS
Partners and supporters of TRI include, The Inn Between, Our Center, Mental Health Partners, Clinica, Salud, Longmont Parole, YMCA of Northern Colorado, LCTC, Denver Women’s Correctional Facility, Spirituality at Work, faith partners, and many more.

VOLUNTEERS
Over 30 volunteers contributed their time in various capacities, from being trained as mentors and partnering with residents, to helping collect items for release days, and even making meals and crocheting afghans.

VISIT REENTRYINITIATIVE.ORG
TRI utilizes The University of Cincinnati Corrections Institute (UCRI) Cognitive Behavioral Training Program, prior to release. Twice a week for 6 months, women practice role playing new ways to handle troublesome situations.

UCRI PROGRAM PARTICIPANT

"I feel that the program really cares about people. I never feel like an inmate here. I am a person...

All I need to succeed is someone that believes in me and I found that in The Reentry Initiative."

- K.C.

"Upon release, my biggest fear for the future is failure and relapse, which would would eventually lead me back (in prison). I have been told one more felony would give me the maximum sentence. Through The Reentry Initiative program, I find myself in a very different place in life. I continue to grow and gain life skills that will help me cope and become a stronger person.

With TRI’s support and training, I see a brighter and healthier future not only for myself, but also for my family. The classes they offer along with the role plays help me find and practice real life situations that we will face back in the free world. Through it all, I find new and healthier ways to cope and respond to situations that used to send me into illegal behavior."

Voices of 2018

BOARD MEMBER
“I joined the TRI board because I was inspired by its mission to empower women who need a second chance to restore their lives and their families. Most of the women in our prisons have been victims of abuse or they are caught in the cycle of poverty, drugs or mental illness. They need help finding the power of their voice. I am proud to be part of The Reentry Initiative, helping women find their voice one step at a time.”

- Pam

MENTOR
“When I was inside serving my time, I was so blessed to have the support of family and friends. However, I was in the minority. That is why I want to be a mentor - to write letters, to stand next to other women to offer hope when they feel hopeless, encouragement when they feel alone and rejected. I can be proof by my testimony that they too CAN navigate this thing called parole and live an abundant life, by standing next to and lifting up the women who come behind them!”
